An Orlando accident attorney helps determine liability

Pedestrian accidents are common and are not as cut and dry as they may seem. If you are struck by a motor vehicle, it's important to have a skilled pedestrian accident attorney to help you navigate the often-confusing legal system as you seek compensation.

A good injury lawyer will help determine who is at fault. Sometimes the cause of the accident falls on multiple parties. Often the driver is at fault. Other times, the city may shoulder the blame. There are also instances where the pedestrian may be partially responsible.

What are the causes of pedestrian injury?

It is easy to assume a driver hitting a pedestrian with their car would be solely at fault. But pedestrians walk while using their mobile phones, either by looking at the screens or listening to phone calls, or music. In some cases, multiple parties may be liable for an accident.

Some of the causes of pedestrian injury include:

- Texting (or other distraction) while driving
- Driving under the influence of alcohol
- Motor vehicle driver turning right without first checking for pedestrians
- Ignoring red lights, stop signs, or crosswalks and striking pedestrians
- Vehicles parked illegally, preventing pedestrians from being seen
- Faulty city streetlights
- Poor street layout
- Driving over the posted speed limits
- Pedestrians jaywalking across intersections

If you are a pedestrian injured in Orlando, you may share some of the responsibility. A good Orlando attorney can help you receive compensation even if you are partially at fault for the accident.
